

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please add an abstract of the disclosure as follows:

A method of manufacturing a glass material for molding includes immersing a preformed glass material in an organic solution which contains an organic silicon-containing compound, an organic sulfur-containing compound, an organic fluorine-containing compound, or an organic nitrogen-containing compound to obtain the glass material which has a self-assembled film on a surface.